ORIENTATION STUDIES 20 cr.

MAAD1101 Orientation, Career planning & Portfolio 3 cr.

Contents

Study techniques, starting to prepare the student's portfolio, presentation techniques, visualization technique, own visual visit card, portfolio and CV.

Learning outcomes

At the end of the course student is able to

- make a study plan
- present his/her expertise

Methods

36 hours lectures and guided exercise, 45 hours independent work.

Requirements

Active participation to the guided exercise. Successful completion of task.

Evaluation

5-1 / fail

Timing

Autumn semester of first year and spring semester of second year Master's studies.

Tutor

Maria Huhmarniemi/Elina Härkönen (AVA), to be confirmed (SD).

Language of instruction

English

MAAD1102 Introduction to Arctic Cultures 5 op

Learning outcomes

At the end of the course student is able to

- have basic understanding of the histories and experiences of the peoples of the Circumpolar North, and the development of northern cultures
- discuss and distinguish traditions and features of northern cultures and art
- describe cultural and artistic similarities and differences of northern peoples and cultures

Content

The aim of this introductory course is to give knowledge of Arctic Cultures and how arctic landscapes and people have been presented in visual arts.

Method

Lectures and seminars 28 hours, independent work, a learning diary and a seminar on literature.

MAAD1103 Arctic Art, Design and Innovation 5 cr.

Contents

The course will introduce the thematic discussions related to the research, development and innovation work related to arctic art and design. The course will introduce central concepts in the core of arctic art, design and innovation: design for social innovation, design thinking, wicked problems and applied visual art. The course will also introduce research processes and case studies on development work in the north. Arctic Art, Design and Innovation work can be applied into marginal contexts and help in generating radical innovation for both social and business contexts.

Learning outcomes

Students will be able to identify the main concepts and process related to thematic discussion and development processes in the arctic region. Students will learn how to use research and development strategies as well as methods and approaches based on art and creativity needed to solve extreme problems.

Methods

The course will be carried out through lectures and workshops 32 hours, and a seminar work, independent work.

Evaluation

YMEN1804 Scientific Information Retrieval 2 cr.

Contents

Use of several international scientific databases (Nelli portal, e-journals etc.), systematic information searches for research purposes within their own discipline, use of reference management system for example Refworks.

Learning outcomes

After completion of the course the student is able to

- define information need
- identify different information sources
- design an effective information search, find search terms and combine them into meaningful search profile
- carry out more systematic information searches for research purposes within their own discipline
- evaluate search results critically and incorporate selected information into his or her knowledge base and value system.

Methods

Lectures and exercises (9 h), final exercise, independent working.

Requirements

Active and regular participation in class work, a passed final exercise.

Evaluation

Pass / fail

Timing

3rd period of first year Master's studies

Target Group

The course is most useful when starting the master's thesis.

XPUH0021 Academic Speech Communication 2 cr.

Contents

The course provides the students with an opportunity to

- recognize the importance of communicative competence as part of their expertise

- learn basic skills in self-reflection, giving and receiving feedback

- develop their skills in academic speech communication.

Learning outcomes

Upon successful completion of the course the students should be able to

- understand the importance of specifying audience and purpose and to make conscious decisions about communication strategies;
- construct and deliver a presentation;
- demonstrate and employ appropriate listening skills in different contexts;
- give and receive feedback;
- develop strategies for building communicative competence;
- recognize various perspectives of ethical communication.

Previous studies

Upper secondary school or equivalent.

Methods

Lectures, discussions, and practical exercises. 24 hours of exercises.

Requirements

Active participation in class, completion of given assignments.

Supplementary literature

The literature will be determined by the lecturer.

Evaluation

XENG0005 Academic Writing for International Master's Degree Students (CEFR B2) 3 cr.

Contents

This course is aimed at students of Master's Degree programmes taught in English. This course will focus on the development of writing skills needed for academic studies and Master's thesis writing. The course will focus on: features of scientific/research writing and the structure of scientific articles, the writing process, organization of an academic essay, argumentation, academic language and vocabulary, paragraph structure. Grammatical structures will be introduced according to the students' needs. Students will practice process writing and receive continuous feedback from the teacher and other students.

Learning outcomes

Upon successful completion of the course the student should be able

- to recognise and understand the basic structures commonly used in academic writing.
- to recognise different styles used in academic writing and to incorporate these differences in his/her own writing.

- to produce relatively fluent, logically sound, argumentative text.
- to have the competence corresponding to the level B2 of the CEFR (the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages).

Methods

The course is a combination of lectures and practical exercises. Lectures and practical exercises. Exercises 36 h.

Requirements

Active participation in class work, regular attendance. Completion of the writing assignments.

UMUO4003 Visual Methodologies 3 cr.

Contents

The course will provide the principles of visual methodologies related on student's theses, interests and their research data / artistic productions

Learning outcomes

Students will understand the process of interpreting and analysing visual data in the context of academic research and specific methodological frameworks.

Students will see the correlations and challenges of art, design and research, and gain knowledge of essential applicable research methods.

Methods

24 hours lectures and visual analysis workshops

MDEN0118 Participatory Design and Interactive Prototypes 3 op

Contents

The course introduces basic methods of interactive prototypes and their benefits and limitation. During the course, interactive prototypes are considered as an integral part of participatory design, and prototyping techniques are applied in the design process. The course included small assignments in the area of interactive prototyping.

Learning outcomes

After the course, the student

- understands the basics of interactive prototyping and how it can be applied to the design of interactive systems and participatory design
- can recognize and assess benefits and limitations of interactive prototypes
- can apply selected interactive prototyping methods in the design process

Methods

Lecture and practicums 21 h, independent exercises 60 h.

Requirements

Active participation to the course work, passed grades of assignments, presentations and presentation materials, and a written report

Literature

Course literature will be assigned at the course. The literature concerns selected prototyping methods and relevant research.

MAAD1204 Project Management 5 cr.

Contents

Learning about general practices and parties of collaboration related to project work in the field of applied visual arts and design. Studying the phases of project work – from kick-off to conclusion. Learning about project planning, financial planning, and project reporting. Checking different forms of financing.

Working methods, targets, and applications of applied visual art and design in the various sectors of society

Learning outcomes

Having completed the course the student can

- describe the most common working methods and forms of cooperation in the field of art and design
- define the phases of project work
- describe the contents of a project plan, financial plan, and project report
- document and assess project work
- plan and organize a development project related to applied visual art

Method

MAAD1205 Arctic Art and Design Project 10 cr.

Contents

Project planning, financing methods, seeking parties of cooperation, implementation, documentation, assessment, and presentation as a project report and an artistic production. The project contents and targets are chosen annually from a number of topical themes

Learning outcomes

Having completed the course the student can

- implement an applied visual art or design project
- engage in team work with multiprofessional interest groups
- apply artistic expertise to the needs of places and communities

Methods

Project studying that includes artistic, design and literary work, depending on the project. Closing seminar 4h. The amount of instruction depends on the nature of the project

Requirements

Project plan, implementation, and reporting. The reporting is made in the form of a report and an exhibition according to specifications. The project reporting instructions are given on the Project organization and management course. Presentation of the project report in a seminar

MAAD1206 Entrepreneur Studies 3 cr.

The course will be chosen from the entrepreneur studies organized by the Lapland University Consortium.

MAAD1207 Literature 3 cr.

Contents

Studying the core literature in applied visual art or service design. Different views around applied visual art and service design. Critical use of the literature in one's own research.

Methods

Taking a literature exam or, alternatively, agreeing with the professor to write an article or other publication related to one's pro gradu thesis

Literature

MAAD1210 Master Thesis and Seminar 40 cr.

Contents

The starting points, targets, methods, and phases of applied visual art and design research. Research-oriented thinking and discussion. Research reporting

Learning outcomes

The student becomes skilled in independent data acquisition, creative problem solving, scientific thinking, and in managing appropriate research methods. In the seminar the students utilize their research process to get acquainted with the literature and research methods related to their field. They examine the phases of research, the construction of a research plan, methodological choices, the utilization of literary sources, the construction of a theoretical basis, and the production of research results and conclusions. Towards the end of the seminar the students learn to deal with questions related to research reporting. The pro gradu thesis must demonstrate knowledge of the chosen theme in applied visual art, a good command of research methods, and proficiency in scientific communication. The pro gradu thesis can be made

- 1) as a scientific thesis or
- 2) as a combination of an artistic production and a related smaller-scale scientific thesis.

The scientific thesis must demonstrate a good command of the principles, theme, and methods of applied visual art and the ability to generate new knowledge. The combination of an artistic production and a smaller-scale thesis must demonstrate skills in high-quality and creative applied visual art activity and in producing a related analysis (scientific part). The implementation of the artistic production can be integrated in the project studies.

Methods

Seminar work 60 h. Independent work.

Requirements

Active participation in seminar work. Writing a literature essay and a research plan. Making the pro gradu thesis and reporting. Before a student can graduate, he/she must have completed a maturity examination (pass/fail) in the field of his/her thesis.

UART1105 Introduction to Service Design 5cr.

Contents

The goal of the course is to give the participant an overview about service design, its key concepts, methods and process. The course will contain both theory and practical case task.

Learning outcomes

After the course student:

- understands the key concepts, methods and process of service design
- understands service design as a design activity and its link to one's own field of study
- have got basics for further method studies and projects on service design

Methods

Lectures, exercises and design task for a case organization

AAVM0305 Practical Training 5 -15 cr.

Content

Work practice (1–3 months) in a workplace approved in advance by the responsible teacher, and a report on the work practice. The work practice report must include the following:

- a description of the environment, function, and strategy of the workplace
- a description of the student's own tasks (e.g. pictures, drafts, ideating phases) as part of the workplace's overall function and organization
- an analysis of an individual function at the workplace and its examination from the perspective of studies
- a report on possible acquired skills, views, and networks and an estimate of possible tasks after graduation
- a copy of the letter of reference

Learning Outcomes

Having completed the course students can assess their own skills in relation to the needs, tasks, and challenges of the work environment.

Methods

Full-time work practice 1–3 months, a work practice report.

1 month work practice, 5 pages report = 5 cr.
